ARTISAN PRINTING & REPRODUCTION SERVICES

Bring your artwork to life with exceptional clarity, colour, and archival quality. My giclée printing and art reproduction services are trusted by artists, photographers, and galleries seeking museum-grade results. Using state-of-the-art inkjet technology, pigment-based inks, and premium archival papers and canvases, we ensure every print captures the finest details and tonal subtleties of the original.

Whether you're producing limited edition prints, creating a portfolio, or preserving a masterpiece, I'll take care of every step - from high-resolution photography to print finishing. The result? Stunning, long-lasting reproductions that honour your creative vision.

GICLÉE PRINTING

Giclée printing (pronounced “zhee-clay”) is a high-resolution, fine art inkjet printing process designed to produce archival-quality reproductions with exceptional detail, tonal range, and colour fidelity. The term “giclée” is derived from the French word gicler, meaning “to spray,” referencing the precise spraying of microscopic ink droplets onto the substrate.

Giclée prints are produced using:

- Pigment-based inks, which offer superior lightfastness, water resistance, and longevity compared to dye-based inks. These inks can maintain colour integrity for over 100 years under proper conditions.
- High-resolution printers (commonly 8–12 colour systems such as the Epson SureColor P-series or Canon imagePROGRAF) capable of delivering resolutions up to 2400 dpi. This allows for extremely smooth gradations, rich blacks, and vibrant, accurate colours.
- Archival substrates, including 100% cotton rag fine art papers, acid-free watercolor papers, and museum-grade canvas. These materials are pH-neutral and lignin-free, meeting the conservation standards required by museums and galleries.
